ABSTRACT

Infrastructure and facility maintenance in educational institutions is often hindered by communication gaps, delayed reporting, and lack of transparency between stakeholders. Students, staff, and administrators usually depend on manual processes such as paper forms, email chains, or verbal complaints to raise issues related to electricity, water, internet, furniture, or cleanliness. These traditional approaches result in mismanagement, duplication of complaints, delayed resolutions, and minimal accountability.

Fix My Campus is a comprehensive web-based application designed to streamline and digitize the process of reporting, tracking, and resolving campus infrastructure and facility issues. The platform provides separate modules for students/staff (issue reporting and tracking) and administrators (issue management, analytics, and user control). Users can securely log in, submit detailed complaints, and view the status of their issues, while administrators can monitor and manage all reports through a powerful dashboard.

Developed using Python Flask as the backend, MySQL as the database, and a responsive front-end with HTML, Tailwind CSS, and JavaScript, the system ensures real-time data handling and a seamless user experience across devices. It incorporates data visualization (via Chart.js) to present key metrics such as the number of issues by category, status, and date trends, enabling administrators to identify recurring problems and allocate resources effectively.

This platform aims to improve communication, enhance transparency, and accelerate issue resolution, thereby increasing the overall efficiency of campus management. Furthermore, it creates a digital audit trail of all activities, ensuring accountability for each action taken. By adopting modern web technologies and centralized management, Fix My Campus serves as a scalable, secure, and user-friendly solution to a common institutional problem.
